SUNDAY WORK IN GERMANY.

Its Results Do Not Favor Keeping P Busy Seven Days a Week.

The extent to which Sunday labor carried on in Germany, as shown in a report of the United States consul at Leipsic, will probably surprise even those who have hitherto observed the tendency in this direction.

In the Prussian districts, from which the fullest returns were obtained, it appears that of 500,156 establishments, emloying 1,582,591 hands, 288,931 establish day, the percentage of establishments kept open being 57.75, and the percentage of employes working on Sunday 42.25. In trade and transportation the report shows that 77 per cent. of the establishments was that 77 per cent. ments are kept open and 57 per cent. of the hands employed.

It would, of course, be interesting to know what correspondence there has been between seven-day labor and the production and trade of the empire for a series of years.

The attempt to dispense with one day of rest in every seven days has often been made in the past, but never with success, although a temporary advantage has been gained in increased production. Inferior workmanship, however, has been sure to follow, and it is doubtful if Germany's experiment in the face of the experience of the world will ultimately succeed.

All Russians smoke cigarettes and de-light to hold a gallon of carbon in their lungs and then roll it out like steam from a 'scape pipe. In Southern Russia and the Caucasus the women—matrons, and even some unmarried ones—smoke al-most as universally as the men.

I have had, two or three times, nicely dressed ladies step up to me in a railroad station or on the platform and beg of me a light. I suppose this arose from my having a cigar, from which a better light could be had than from the cigarette of seather.

In Northern Russia and at St. Peters-burg I have seen but two women with cigarettes, and think they were travelers. I am told comparatively few here smoke.

THE PLATFORM.

The Republicans of Washoe, proud of the past and hopeful for the future, heartily endorse the platform and nominees of the National Republican Convention, as adopted at Chicago, and the Republican State Convention at Winnemuces, and pledge a rousing majority for Harrison and Morton and Protection, and Murphy and Bartine and the ticket nominated by this Convention. We demand legislation from both Government and State in regard to irrigation, and for the Improvement of our matural waterways, as well asfor the storage of water, whereby the natural advantages of this section can be improved to their fullest capacity. We demand the most rigid economy in State and County affairs, and the establishment of the State's expenses upon such a basis as will secure good government at the lowest rate of faxation. We maintain that a rate of seventy-five cents should be and is sufficient to provide revenue for the State Government.

The following platform and resolutions were adopted by the Republican State Convention, which convened at Winnemucca ou the 15th instant:

The Republicans of the State of Nevada, in Convention assembled, again express their loyalty to the principles of the Republican party, which have made this country so great and prosperous during the last quarter of a centur?

RESOLVED, That the question of a sufficient upply of circulating medium to maintain a permanent range of the price of lab and property is the most important political question swaiting solution by the American people.

can people.

That a diminishing quantity of money reduces the price of labor and properly mirriches the creditor. Improvershes the lebtor, and paralyzes industry and enter-enriches the creditor, impovershes the debtor, and paralyzes industry and enterprise.

That the present financial system of the United States, which increases or diminishes the circulating medium at the pleasure of the manipulators of the national barks, without regard to the increase of population or the wants of the people, and which recognizes gold alone as the standard of value, and places in the hands of the Treasury Department all the revenue of the Government to speculate with in bonds and loan to the national banks without interest, is subservive of the rights of the people, oppressive, anjust and should be repudiated.

That a financial folicy whereby both gold and ally a shall form the basis of circulation, whether the money used by the people be coin, or both, as convenience may require, is impersitively demanded.

That the attempt to anhatitute national bank notes, costing the Government milions of dollars annually, for free silver, costing nothing, is an outrage upon the recople; that the money ring or trust, which has usurped the sovereign power of the Government to issue money, and which has fraudulently demonetized silver and seized the revenues of the Government for private speculation, shocks the moral sense of the people and destroyed, and equal rights be restored to all the people.

We charge that Fresident Cleveland is the willing tool or agent of a powerful money ring, which fattens on the subsidies of the Government, borrows the expense of the Government, the contracts the currency to enhance the value of bonds, and enriches unavers, while it depresses the price of labor and property.

That we favor the nomination of no man or President who is personally interested.

enhance the value of bonds, and entransparent aurers, while it depresses the price of labor and property.

That we favor the nomination of no man for President who is personally interested in national banks or the bonded indebtedness of the United States, but we demand a candidate who is free to do justice to all the people of the country—the poor as well as the rich.

That the trick of the President and his advisers by which they prevented a vote in the House of Representatives on the Beck silver amendment to the Bond Purchase bill, equals the villainy of the secret and traudulent demonetization of silver in 1873.

RESOLVED, That we are in favor of the protection of home industry, and that the laborers of this country have a right to all the work required to supply the people of the United States, and that we are in favor of high wages, and to that the different wages, workers from competition with the cheap labor of other lands. RESOLVED, That the policy of the Government should be inaugurated and established by the p opis torough their representatives in both Houses of Congress, and not by the President or money trust, of which he, either as agent or head, is most active in defending.

which he, either as agent or head, is most which he, either as agent or head, is most active in defending.

We charge President Cleveland with violating avery promise he made in favor of civil service reform, with crippling the mail service, with refusing to aign necessary bills for the improvement of rivers and harbors, with using the power of his administration to prevent appropriations for one of the citizens of the nited States, and with joining the foreign bondholders to demonstize eliver and descroy the industries of his own country, and for the reduction of the wages of the Mint employees at Carson, for closing the Carson Mint when it was not only self-sustaining but a source of revenue to the Government, for his contemptuous vetoes of bills for the relief of disabled soldiers and sallors, and for falling to construct the Government building at Carson as required by law.

We are in favor of the absolute exclusion of the labor market is made worke, and we favor legislation by which a revision of our naturalization and land laws may be accomplished.

We demand in behalf of our various industries the retention of the drilles on lead borax, sods, hides and leather, and to restore the tariff of 1867 on wool.

RESOLVED. That we recognize the right of labor to organize for its lawful protection

We favor the appropriations by Congress for hydrographical and topographical surveys in this State, to the end that the waste waters may be preserved for the purpose of irrigation.

We endorse the wise and concervative administration of Governor Stevenson, and we heartily commend the able efforts of Senators Jones and Stewart and Representative condburn in behalf of the interests of this State.

We favor the reduction of the reaery aurplus by the paymest of pensions to Union soldiers, their widows and orphans, the improvement of rivers and harbors, the building of defenses for the sea coast, the erection of public buildings, the creation of anay, the purchase of bonds and the repeal of the internal revenue laws taxing tobacco.

of the internal revenue laws taxing tobacco.

It is the duty of this State to maintain free, non-sectarian schools in the rural and sparsely settled districts, as well as in towns and thickly populated sections, and that such division of the school money shall be made as will furnish the means of education to all children of the State.

We are in favor of reopening the Carson Mint for coinage and raising the wages of its employes to the standard paid by the last administration.

The Senate Tariff Bill.

The United States Senate yesthe Tariff bill, and was addressed to explain away and to misrepreinjure American labor and capital. The issue was fairly drawn between the two political parties. The question was: Free Trade, or Protection to American Labor. Neither subterfuge nor new expressions of faith would conceal or obscure the real question. Democratic orators were attempting in manufacturing districts to shift their ground and to conceal the purposes of their party, but the official utterances of the President and the reports of the Secretary of the Treasury, emphasized by the Mills bill—which had been indersed sold for their owner, belonged not Mills bill-which had been indorsed by the National Democratic Convention, and which had passed the House by a strict party vote-left no doubt whatever as to the true position of the Democratic party on that great question. The Senate bill left no doubt as to the position of the Republican party. Both parties conceded that there should be a reduction of the revenue, and to about the same amount Therefore the question of the amount of taxation was not involved in the discussion, but the question was as to the manner in made. The speaker then examined some of the details of the Mills bill, in order to prove that in preferred in favor of the industries of Confederate States against the industries of the Northern States.

Hawley suggested in explanation of that fact that of the Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee, which made up the Mills' bill, six were from Confederate States and two from Northern States

Hiscock proceeded to illustrate his point with further instances drawn from the Mills' bill, and intimated that the minority of Sen ators of the Committee on Finance were acting on the same policy. He declared the assumption of Mills as to the small average reduction of duties under his bill to be false, and showed that those figures were made by including sugars, liquors, tobacco and wines, on which ad valorem duties were large, but said that with those articles omitted from calculation the reduction in the Mills' bill would be from forty to fifty per cent. The effect of the Mills' bill, Mr. Hiscock declared, could not be disguised. The Senate bill was equally pronounced in character and principle. It fairly illustrated the Republican policy of protection, and when its provisions became a law it would defeud the American market against foreign competition. It was not sectional. 'The industries of the North, South, East and West were equally provided for in it. It was the oppoaite of the Mills' bill. The Democracy had tendered the issue, and every effort should be made to meet it fairly.

THE Union Labor Party of San Francisco on Saturday last gave evidence of their appreciation of protection by endorsing W. W. Morrow, the present Congressman from the Fourth Congressional District of California, for re-election. These intelligent working men appreciate his efforts in protecting them from the competition of cheap labor goods, and in protecting them from the competition of cheap labor in person.

make our own laws, to encourage industry by bounties, and to foster native manufactures by protective tariffs. One by one our manufactories perished, until in 1847, we were reduced to the condition described by Thomas Francis Meagher in that calamitous year, Meagher says:

"The cotton manufacture of Dublin, which employed 14,000 operatives, has been destroyed; the stuff and serge manufactures, which employed 1,400 operatives have been destroyed; the calico looms of Balbriggan have been destroyed; the flaunel manufacture of Rathdrum has been destroyed; the blanket manufacture of Kilkenny has been destroyed; the camlet trade of Bandon, which produced £1,000,000 a year, has been destroyed; the worsted and stuff manufactures of Waterford have been destroyed; the rateen and freeze manufactures of Carrick-on-Suir have been destroyed. One business altered the restroyed and describes and freeze saltered theres. freeze manufactures of Carrick-on-Suir have been destroyed. One business alone thrives and flourishes and dreads no bankruptcy. That fortunate business which the Union Act stood by, which the absentees' drain has not slackened but stimulated, which the Drainage Acts and Navigation Acts of the Imperial Senate have not deadened but invigorated — that favored and privileged and patronized business is the Irish coffin-makers."

READY TO GET UP.

Editor Davis' Experience With Mason Valley Cowboys. The Carson Appeal says: When he editor of the Appeal was at Waouska there was a big dance, and when it was over the sleeping accommodations were so limited that the ladies were all given beds in the hotel, and parties of the male persuasion were obliged to content themselves with shakedowns in a warehouse.

About 4 in the morning some cowboys came in and woke up the sleepers with the call: "Wake up, you -and be sociable!"

The writer woke up and saw a cow-boy standing by his bedside on horse-back, trying to throw a lariat over his

It struck us as a good time to get up It struck us as a good time to get up anyhow, as the air was fresh and the morning lark was singing. While the Appeal editor was dressing, he noticed that the cowboys had fastened lariats around the mattrasses, and were pulling them out into the street. By the time the man on the mattrass struck the middle of the street, he was quite ready to get up and invite the man who woke him to take a cocktail.

The man who takes his waking up in good part is voted as "sociable" by the crowd, and the man who doesn't will repent his lack of "sociability."

will repent his lack of "sociability."
Those who get sociable with the Mason Valley cowboys will find them the best natured fellows in the world, overflowing with fun and amiability.

Pulling a stranger out of bed in the morning by hitching a lariat to his leg is merely their way of scraping an acquaintance, and introductions of this sort often cement lagting friendships.

NEVADA POTATOES.

A Suggestion to the Farmers of Long and Honey Lake Valleys. Wabuska, on the line of the C. & C. ilroad, ships 100 car-loads of potatoes to the San Francisco markets yearly. It is a well-known fact that Nevadagrown spuds command from 1/4 to 1 grown spuds command from ½ to 1 cent a pound more in the San Francisco markets than potatoes grown in any other section. There is no reason why Long Valley and Honey Lake Valley should not ship two or three hundred car-loads per annum. Those valleys have both climate and soil for the successful cultivation of the tuber. Grain raising returns but a small profit to the farmers, and now that they have railroad communication with the outside world, it might pay to change the crop. The Gazerrz believes that the farmers of those valleys would find the potato crop more profitable than grain.

of C. W. Booton, and acting as janitor of McKissick's Opera House, was taken down with small pox on Monday. It is not known where Wilder acted the disease. He was out in contracted the disease. He was out in the country last week, but whether he was exposed while away or whether the germs of the disease were contained in the litter about the Opera House is not known. Suffice it to say that he has a genuine case of small pox, and it behe over every one in town-to guard, in every way possible, against its spread. Wilder is quarantined in a small house on North Virginia street and a yellow flag has been put out.

THE PRIZE RING.

learns that the prize fight between McCauliff and Dacy in San Franmccanilif and Dacy in San Francisco last night resulted in a victory for McCanliff, who knocked Dacy out in eleven rounds; time, 42 minutes and 40 seconds. Dacy tried to spike McCauliff but the latter hit him a terrific blow on the left ear and knocked him clear out.

Last evening's Carson Tribune says The funeral of the late H. G. Parker called, she deprived us of the right to largest and most imposing ever seen in Carson. The services were con ducted under the auspices of Nevada Lodge, No. 1, F. & A. M., and were Lodge, No. 1, F. & A. M., and were very impressive, both at the hall and grave. The following friends of the deceased acted as pall-bearers: Dr. S. L. Lee, Chas. W. Friend, Frank McCullough, Alec Ardery, C. N. Noteware and Gec. C. Thaxter. The funeral cortege consisted first of the Masons in full regalia, then the Carson Guard, followed by a line of forty carriages. The music was conducted by the Choral Society. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, and were lowered into the grave with the lamented Hub.

Boncy Lake Fruit. An agent of McDonough & Johnson, commission merchants of San Francisco, has been in Honey Lake Valley the past week, buying fruit and making contracts. The Southern Pacific Company and the N. C. & O. have made a joint rate on car-load lots from Liegan to San Francisco of $140 per car. This favorable rate gives our neighbors at the north a chance to disneighbors at the north a chance to dis-pose of their fruits to advantage. In this connection we will say that fruit grown in Honey Lake Valley cannot be excelled.

U. S. Grand Jury. The United States Grand Jury, recently summoned, convened in Carson Monday and found a true bill of indictment for murder against Willie Dunn, the Pinte Indian who murdered Charlie Winnemucca, a member of the tribe, and a descendant of the Piute chief of that name, at Pyramid Lake Reservation last Spring. Dunn alleged that his victim was too familiar with his (Dunn's) wedded squaws, hence he sidered it necessary to "remove Justifiable, Homicide.

Late reports from Grant county, Or. indicate that the homicide near Shirk's ranch was justifiable. Dave Shirk, who fired the fatal shot, did so, according to the evidence, in self-defense. Isaacs, who was killed, threatened to take Shirk's life, and is said to have been in the act of taking aim at Shirk when the latter shot him. The examination was being conducted before a Justice of the Peace at Blitzen, and had not been concluded before our in-formant left.

What Does It Mean ? The Carson Tribune asks these perinent questions: What is the meaning of the Democrats putting up such prominent men for the Senate as Russel of Elko county, Hock Mason of Lyon county, and John Brady of Storey? Is Jim Fair in the field? Senator Jones should come home and look to his fences.

Verdi Mili Company. Articles of incorporation were day filed in the County Clerk's office of the Verdi Mill Co., the incorpo rators being O. Lonkey, J. F. Condon, J. P. Foulks and C. C. Powning. The new company purposes building procure water for driving the ma-chinery from the Essex Ice Company

The Black Murder Case. The Black murder case, which is being tried in Carson, was concluded this afternoon and given to the jury, but up to the GAZETTE's press hour no verdict had been agreed upon.

A Cheap Drug. A London paper says that the discovery made by Mr. Hewitt in the artificial manufacture of quinine will reduce the price of that drug to a few cents per pound.

Is it a boy or girl? How often do we hear this remark and question We hear this remark and question.
Yes, it is a pretty baby, but how bad its mother looks. She looks as if she were going right down. She is so thin and yellow, and her face is covered with wrinkles and hiotches. She seems so nervous and irritable, too: but it is easy to account for her condition. Childbirth has left her with prolangus or other displacements, points. prolapsus or other displacements, poi-soned blood and a disordered state of the stomach and bowels. The best thing she can do is to use at once Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which has been prepared for the express need of women in this condition. All

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Possesses the greatest possible power to heal and control affections of the throat and inners, with absolute safety for children or adults. The experience of years has proven it to be of inestimable value as a household medicine, and for professional use. Thousands of physicians and families testify to its great worth. Jas. E. Moling, Hillard, Ohio, writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for twelve years, and have found that, as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, or Sore Throats, it

Is Unequaled.

J. I. Miller, editor of the "Lutheran John J. Uhlman, Brooklyn, N.S., writes: "Twelve years ago, I was afflicted with a severe bronchial trouble, pronounced by a J. I. Miller, editor of the Lutarian stome," Luray, Va., writes: "I advertise acting that I do not know to be good. I was saved from the grave, I am rure, by the use of Ayer's Cherry Fectoral, and have recommended it to others with the bapplest results." L. J. Addison, M. D., Cnicago, Ill., writes: "I have never sional use of it since that time has, I think, extended my life ten years at least." Mrs. Chicago, Ill., writes: "I have never found, in thirty-five years of continuous study and practice in medicine, any preparation of so great value as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, for treatment of diseases of the throat and lungs; and I constantly recommend it to my patients. It not only breaks up colds and cures severe coughs, but is effective in relieving the most serious bronchial and pulmonary affections."

THE MINISTER'S BRADE.

The arrival of the new minister in Lo-ust Hollow, as the pretty village was alled, was regarded as quite an event by

A new minister is always an object of interest to his people for a month or two; then the interest flags, and finally he is accepted as a matter of course, and—generally to his delight—is no longer

But this particular divine seemed likely to keep speculation going for a longer period than the customary nine days, and, being a somewhat humorous fellow, he thoroughly enjoyed it. For the Rev. Jerome Grant was unmarried—warranted by the gossips to have no lady-love—young, handsome, and pos-sessed of a private income, which made salary a secondary consideration. Now, in Locust Hollow there were a number of very plump and pretty girls, with a few slim graceful damsels; but the plump ones outnumbered the slim, as always is the case in country villages, with their fresh air, healthy diet and regular hours. ular hours.

Among the very plumpest of the village maidens was Gussie Elliston; and Miss Gussie's blue eyes and red-and-white complexion seemed to have found favor in the eyes of Mr. Grant, for he speedily placed himself on familiar footing at the long low farmhouse, where he met with very warm greetings from the farmer and his wife, and dimpling smiles and shy blushes wife, and dimpling smiles and shy blushes from their daughter.

Among the very slimmest and palest of those who listened to the young minister Bunday after Sunday, was Louise, the daughter of a helpless widow, who lived a little out of the village, and who had therefore escaped the knowledge of Jerome for some time.

Perhaps Louise's cheeks would have had more color in them, and her eyes less of that wistful tenderness, did not the burden of her own and her invalid mother's support fall on her slight young shoulders.

But day after day—on cold dark days, when winds swept weirdly by the little cottage—on warm wooing days, when her pulses throbbed with longing to be out among the violets—ahe sat quietly at the little window, her brown head bent over the sewing in her hands, the garments to be worn by more fortunate ones than herself, which she fastioned.

Jerome had noticed the girl's sweet patient face, and wondered why he only saw it on Sunday-wondered how it was he had never seen it in the many homes that had been open for him to enter at, a welcome guest.

But Gussie's blue eyes had been enough like violets to make him speedily forget the wis ful brown ones, and it was not until he had been installed at Locust Hollow for three months, and had begun to think that Gussie Elliston would make a very sweet minister's wife, that accident brought him to the door of the cottage which the Widow Vennevale and her daughter occupied.

It was warm; the young man warm, too, and tired, from a long ramble; he was thirsty as well; and so, after hesitating a few moments, knocked lightly on the open door, intending to ask for a glass of water.

His knock had not been heard evidently, for nobody replied to it: and while he waited, a low murmuring voice reached he waited, a low murmuring voice reached him from within.

"I did my best, mother," girlish tones answered wearliy, "and I thought it very nice. I often wonder how people can say such hatsh and cruel words to me, when I try so hard to please them. Mother—my poor mother—it is very hard to be poor; to be a woman, and poor—there is nothing harder in this whole wide world!"

The sweet voice had taken more than weariness on its music. It became passionate and bitter, and ended in a burst of sobs.

The young man was profoundly touched, but he lifted his hand once more, and knocked more loudly. This time he was heard, and a light but languid step crossed towards the door.

In a moment Louise Vennevale, with undried tears on her long lashes, was looking at him with wondering eyes, brown as hazel-nuts.

"You are one of my people, are you not?" he questioned, with a smile. "I have not called before, but you will pardon that, and bid me enter now, will you

"Certainly." And she led him into the tipy room, where Mrs. Vennevale lay on a sofa.
"Mamma," she said quietly, "this is Mr. Grant. He has come to see you."

And, greatly to the young man's disap-pointment, after placing a chair for him beside the sofa, she glided out, slight and graceful as a spirit.

He remained almost an hour, conve

ing with the invalid. He heard the pitiful atory—too sadly frequent for men to mind it much to-day, in their busy seifish lives; the struggle to purchase a little home for wife and child by the stalwart young far mer, who had only his strong hands and atrong heart to rely on; then the song lingering illness of the woman; during which the first mortgage had fallen on the farm; then the sudden death by sunstroke, of the man, and the helpless widness had contact the sudden th ow's efforts to educate her only child, beow's efforts to educate her only child, be-fore allowing her to take up the weary burden that now she had borne for four years with gentlest patience.

"It breaks my heart to see her work at her sewing from morning till night, and often half the night." Mrs. Vennevale eaid, in conclusion, her eyes dim with tears. "And sometimes the has to take such insolence, too. That is very hard to

"To-day Miss Guarte Eli-dress she had left for a dress she had le such cruelly u ached for my daughter. D Louise had been weeping wi usi adviser of a village full of people.

It was with a pang at his heart that he began to think the blue eyes and fair face of the girl who had smiled so shyly at his oming might but be a mask for a selfish

There is a pienic in the birch-grove on "There is a picnic in the birch-grove on Mouday," Mrs. Vennevale went on, "and it was for that Miss Gussie wanted this particular dress. My poor child cannot go, or rather, she will not, for she never leaves me, arge her as I may.

"She was just saying hew hard it is to be a woman and poor, when you came, Mr. Graht."

"Yes, as had heard her say the words but did not say so. Instead, he stood up and took the weak hand of the woman.

"I do not think I will join the merry makers on Monday, either," he said pleasantly. "My dear madam, you and I have been strangers too long. Let me come here on Monday and become better acquainted with you."

So when Gussie Elliston, arrayed in the pretty dainty muslin, which was really very well-made and well-fitting, and set off her blue eyes and fair complexion to advantage—was watching for one face vainly in the grove of birch, that masculine face was turned towards a window in the little cottage of the Vennevales, at which a girl sat sewing with bent brown head and eyes alight.

Gussie met him next after the morning service on the following Sunday.

She chided him playfully for his absence from the picnic, but he only smiled, and, after a few words passed on and and, after a few words passed on and joined Louise Vennevale, with whom he valked through the village, leaving her walked through the village, leaving her at the cottage gate.

It was only three months later that a pretty Gothic dwelling shot up rapidly beside the church.

And when it was completed, Jeroms Grant took his bride and her mother to it one golden day in late autunm, and Louise Vennevale, the alighted dressmaker, was that bride.

Strange to say, Gusale was one of the first to call on her, as she whispered to her intimates, "out of pure curiosity."

her intimates, "out of pure curiosity."
Of course, as the minister's wife, Louise had to be civil to her, laying aside the past.

MOHAMMED AND MUSIC.

The Prophet Nowhere Encourages the Practice of the Tonal Art.

It is, indeed, remarkable that the It is, indeed, remarkable that the founder of the religion of a music-loving people like the Arabs should have been so decidedly indifferent to the practice of the tonal art. For although Mohammed, strictly speaking, was the avowed enemy of the plastic art only, yet nowhere do we find him encouraging the practice of the tonal art.

This is all the more unaccountable since, not with standing the prophet's seeming indifference towards the art, he never denied his descent from a musical nation. For he tells us that when, like Moses, he withdrew into the solitude of the wilderness, there to hold communion with his God, he heard the sound, as it were, of a tinkling bell, and voices singing and calling to him, and on looking, behold, no one was night

Afraid of losing his reason he communicated this strange manifestation to his wife, Chadidsha, and it was entirely ow-ing to her ministering comfort that he took courage, and continued to believe in his Divine mission.

The fact of Mohammed seeking the advice of his wife would seem to indicate that the social position of Arabian women was superior to that of other oriental nations, and it breathes somewhat of that chivalrons spirit which we see now and then reflected in their melodies.

Music also had no important part assigned to it in the early wars of Mohammed. At the battle of Ohod, 625, A. D.. in which the victorious Mohammed three times repulsed the Meccanites, the women, led by the poetess Hind, sang to the sound of the timbrel that the victor would be received with open arms.

FENCING IN DUELLING.

The Disposing of Differences by Fighting Originated in Barbarism.

In a country like France where duelling is sanctioned by the social code and prac-tically permitted by the law, fencing must be held in high esteem.

Duelling with swords is certainly a braver and maniler method of disposing of differences than a resort to the brutal and stupid bullet. With us the lesson taught by Hamilton's death has been deep and precious.

It it not thought necessary to prove man's valor by a personal encounter, and the moral sense of our people, supported by our legislation, likens the killing of a man by a prearranged encounter to delib erate murder.

It is a mistake, however, to suppose that the custom of duelling was a plant indigenous to Latin civilization. Its origin is distinctly barbarous, Scandinavian

It is stated that a Teuton once sent a a challenge to Marius. This statesman gentlemen that he declined, simply stating, "If he is in a hurry to die, let him hang himself."
Perhaps the world would be none the worse if the same answer were given in more modern cases.

" HOME, SWEET HOME."

The Late Sir Henry Bishop Composed the Music of This Most Popular Song. Some time ago, when the late Mr. Cor-coran's touching tribute to John Howard Payne's memory was a topic of fresh in-terest to Americans, I was drawn into a short controversy relating to the authorship of the music of "Home, Sweet Home," whose popular words have im-mortalised the name of Payne as their author.

It was maintained by me at that time that the coniposer of the music was the late Sir Henry Bishop, but quite a formidable array of writers appeared in opposition to my assertion, and not having anything stronger than my memory to forsify my statement, I was quite overwhelmed by the "cloud of witnesses" for the opposition who maintained that the melody was a "Sicilian air adapted by Bishop."

Bishop."

Perhaps you will not deny me the justice, even at this late day, of publicly asserting that I have now, right here in London, come into possession of the report of a legal verdict in favor of the elaims of Mr. Bishop as the true composer of "Home, Sweet Home," and thus vindeating my own humble character for accuracy of statement where musical history is concerned.—Jerome Hopkins in New York Sun.

THE WISDOM OF CHILDHOOD.

An Effective Rebuke of a Henriless Son. An old grandfather had become quite feeble, and his hand shook so that he could hardly hold a dish. Frequently it slipped from his trembling fingers and was broken. His son harshly scolded him for what he called such carelessness. One day the latter's little boy came in-to the room to find his father at work on a block of wood, and asked him if he was making another plg's trough. He replied:

"I am making a trough for an old hog to eat out of. The fact is, it is for your grandfather. He's broken so many dishes that I must stop it or we'll all go to the poorhouse. Now, my boy, run away and play."

But the boy hesitated, and slowly said:
"Father, hadn't I better stay and learn how to make it, so when you get old and break up the dishes I can make one for you to eat out of?"

The trough wasn't finished. Hartford Herald.
